Born 1995 in LA and raised in San Diego, Dylan began performing classical, jazz, funk, and rock music in local middle and high school bands. After daydreaming in grade school piano lessons, Dylan started music seriously on oboe in the 6th grade, then added bass guitar, guitar ukulele, mellophone, french horn, trumpet, tuba, euphonium, upright bass, baritone guitar, and mandolin to their repertoire. They trained under renowned San Diego bassist Gunnar Biggs before earning a Bachelor's of Arts in Music at UC Irvine. Conservatory faculty Dylan worked with included Jazz Program Director and visionary pianist Kei Akagi, upright bass legend Darek Oleskiewicz, and world-class music professors including Kojiro Umezaki, Christopher Dobrian, Bobby Rodriguez, Gerry Pinter, Jason Harnell, Nicole Mitchell, Amy Bauer, Lukas Ligeti, and Michael Dessen. During undergrad, Dylan frequently played music on the Newport Beach pier: solo, or with their brass band I Plead the Funk, and spent time gigging around LA and Orange County with their pickup bands and their Jazz Combo, The Jazz Cats. Dylan also worked as a luthier at the San Diego County Music Exchange in Vista CA during and for several years after their undergraduate studies.
